

NCDA Monthly Report

Last Updated: November 17, 2021

On The Hill

Yet again, infrastructure and budget reconciliation were the two big topics on the Hill this month. Negotiations on the massive Build Back Better budget reconciliation package took up a lot of Congress's bandwidth, and President Biden released a new framework that provided us with a clearer picture of where the bill stands now. However, we finally saw progress on the $1.5 trillion bipartisan infrastructure package, which passed the House after a midnight vote on Friday, November 5th. The bill passed with the support of all but 6 House Democrats, and with yes votes from 13 House Republicans. It was signed into law by President Biden on Monday, November 15th.

The other key development this month was the release of the Senate Appropriations Committee's proposed legislation for fiscal year 2022. Congress needs to pass an appropriations bill for next year, or pass another continuing resolution to extend funding passed under the last Administration, by December 3rd in order to avert a shutdown. There is also a December 3rd deadline for legislation to increase the debt ceiling, and with Congressional Democrats pushing to pass the Build Back Better Act by Thanksgiving, there is a lot to do in very little time.

Lobbyit Update

UPDATE

The biggest news from the Hill for NCDA this month is that Lobbyit successfully worked with Representatives GT Thompson (R-PA) and Jim Langevin to (D-RI) introduce H. Res. 758, a Congressional Resolution honoring National Career Development Month on November 1st. The legislation includes statistics from the recently published Harris Poll data. NCDA Executive Director Deneen Pennington was asked to provide a statement for the Congressional press release on the legislation.

Our team also presented to the NCDA board in Alexandria in early October, where we outlined our legislative efforts over the past year and how we will continue to build our presence in Washington. The board also highlighted what items they are interested in prioritizing; topics raised included credentialing and veterans' career development policy.

We collaborated closely with members of the NCDA Government Affairs Committee and with the American Counseling Association to record a presentation on advocacy efforts for NCDA's virtual Career Practitioners' Institute.

Lobbyit continues to send weekly Hill updates and provide updates at monthly committee meetings for NCDA.

LOOKING AHEAD

The Lobbyit team is looking forward to facilitating Q&A at the virtual Career Practitioners' Institute on November 17th. We are also in contact with the CTE Caucus about how we can build broader awareness for the Career Development Month Resolution. With the recent passage of the bipartisan infrastructure deal, we are closely monitoring the progress of the Build Back Better Act and working to ensure that key provisions related to apprenticeship expansion, career technical education, and other workforce programs are maintained in the final package. Further out, we are beginning discussions around how NCDA can provide input on reauthorization of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act early next year.
